1950–59

Joan Hedeem Pierce '52 has published Sunday Words Have Monday Meanings. The book features essays and poetry about her life and spiritual journey over the past 40 years — since her graduation from St. Kate's.

Mary Treacy '63 has accepted a position with Open the Government, a national coalition committed to the right to information by and about the government. She will work to create a national action plan in support of openness as a basic tenet of government at every level.

Mary Johnson Corcoran '65 wrote the book Return to Venjan: The Search for our Swedish Roots, which the Swedish American Geneologist reviewed in 2013.

Patricia Whalen Kummer '67, who has written 67 books, recently published the seven-book Climates and Continents series (February 2014) and Working Horses (August 2013). Her new books are for children in grades 4–6.

Kathleen Weber '65, Kaylene Robertson Weiser '65 and Mary Dooley Newcomb '65 traveled to Paris in October 2013 to celebrate their 70th birthdays. They are pictured here in Rodin's sculpture garden in front of The Gates of Hell, Rodin's depiction of Dante's Divine Comedy.

Mary Indrelie Kaminski Janowak '69 writes a blog and runs a small group called The Basement Support Group. The blog (thebasementsupportgroup.com) focuses on clutter and its emotional, relational and spiritual baggage. Members help one another to achieve success in dealing with their excessive belongings and gain new freedom in their lives.

Ann Williams Bussey '70 retired from Essentia Institute of Rural Health after 40 years of service. She held a variety of leadership positions in the health system, including vice president of physician and professional services. She also authored articles in the Group Practice Journal for the American Medical Association, contributed to reference books and presented at national conferences.

Mary Adrian M'72 received the 2014 Distinguished Principal Award from the National Catholic Educational Association (NCEA) in April. Since 1987, the award has been presented by NCEA's Elementary Schools Department to outstanding Catholic elementary school principals throughout the United States.

Kathryn Klejbuk Heuer '72 is the database program manager for Metropolitan Area Agency on Aging, the seven-county (Twin Cities) information and referral agency for senior services.

Venture capitalist Ann Winblad '73 was featured in the Silicon Valley Business Journal in January 2014. She is the co-founder and managing partner at Hummer Winblad Venture Partners.

Joan Friesen Somes '74 is serving a three-year term on the board of directors for the Emergency Nurses Association (ENA). Somes joined ENA in 1976 and has been active at the local and national level. She has presented multiple lectures at ENA's annual and leadership conferences. She has also been a member of the Geriatric Committee since 2004 and co-editor of the geriatric column in the Journal of Emergency Nursing since 2010.

Ann Jacobs Erickson '75, MAOL'92 won the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics 2014 Award for Grassroots Excellence for her leadership in nutrition advocacy. She has educated and involved colleagues across Minnesota in statewide initiatives to improve the health of Minnesotans. In addition, she has worked to meet Minnesota's public policy goals by meeting with members of Congress and by developing a working relationship with the governor's office and the Minnesota Department of Health.

Debra Barone Sheats '75, director of St. Catherine's Didactic Program in Nutrition and Dietetics, was elected chair of the Minnesota Board of Dietetics and Nutrition Practice. In the role, she will serve as a public official representing the citizens of Minnesota and will provide leadership to the Health Licensing Board.

ReBecca Koenig Roloff '76 was keynote speaker at the Women's Health Leadership TRUST 2014 Forum on April 29 at the Minneapolis Convention Center. Her address was titled "Am I Getting Wiser, or Just Older? Lessons Learned in Leadership." Roloff is president and chief executive officer of the YWCA of Minneapolis.

Virginia "Ginny" Carroll Stoffel '77 was a speaker at OT Day at the Minnesota capitol. She is the current president of the American Occupational Therapy Association and an associate professor in the Department of Occupational Science and Technology at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

Mary Jo McGuire '78 chairs the Legislative Committee as an elected member of the Ramsey County (Minnesota) Board. She also chairs Active Living Ramsey Communities, where she works to promote healthy living and physical activity in Ramsey County.

Anne Barry '79 is the first woman to be inducted into the U.S. Rugby Association Hall of Fame. She has served on the Minnesota Youth Rugby board for the past 10 years and was the president of the Minnesota Rugby Union for 22 years. She was USA Rugby president from 1998 to 2002 and treasurer from 1990 to 1998, and a member of the Midwest Rugby Union board of directors from 1990 to 2005.

Barry played rugby with the Twin Cities Amazons and the Midwest Women's Rugby team. She continues to serve as general manager for the Twin Cities Amazons, as well as board member for the Minnesota Rugby Union and member of the Governing Council for the Women's Premier League.

Cynthia Witte Holmes '83 entered two poems in the Serbian Library's 2014 Poetry and Prose contest. Her poem "My Grandmother Leaving Dvor" was a first-place winner in the Poetry in English category, while her poem "Ebb and Flow" earned a commendation. The Serbian Library opened in London in 2010 and held its first international poetry competition for children of the Serbian Diaspora in 2014.

Cherry Wallander Smith '79 joined Naples Trust Company as executive vice president. She is responsible for helping clients and prospects with investments and estate planning.

Maureen Warren '79 has been named vice president and chief family services officer for St. Paul-based Lutheran Social Service of Minnesota, the state's oldest and largest human service organization. She previously served as its vice president of special projects.

1980-89

Jean Delaney Nelson '80 and three other women executives in the Twin Cities area were featured in an April article in Twin Cities Business magazine, speaking about how corporate culture matters when attracting female executives. Delaney Nelson is senior vice president and chief information officer at Securian, and serves on the St. Catherine University Board of Trustees.

Ann Salzer Bellin '81 has been named assistant director at the Blake School's Highcroft campus, after serving as interim assistant director. She has worked at the school the past 13 years. She will assume her new role on July 1, 2014.

Lucy Taylor '83 is serving her sixth term on the Prairie Island (Minnesota) Tribal Council. She was first elected to the council in 1984 as secretary and has also acted as assistant secretary/treasurer and treasurer. Prior to the council, she held positions in the community as home school coordinator and was an Indian child welfare worker for seven years.

Anne Weyandt '83 returned to St. Kate's in January as the Dean of Adult and Applied Education. In her new role, she engages with faculty and staff on both the Minneapolis and St. Paul campuses to identify strategies that increase post-secondary access and success for a more diverse adult learner population.

Linda Theis Thrasher '88 is the new chief executive officer of DigitalTown, a Minnesota-based domain management and cloud services broker. She is a member of the St. Catherine University Board of Trustees and a past president of the Alumnae Council.

1990-99

Katherine McDonald Thunborg '90 started a business, Katherine M. Thunborg, LLC, in which she serves as a guardian and conservator. She assists seniors and their families with decisions and issues regarding health and finances.

Carie Jernberg Lynch '91 was honored as part of the Real Awards, announced in January 2014. The awards program was created to celebrate the life-saving work of healthcare workers around the globe. Lynch works as a nurse at the Juvenile Detention Center and Boys Totem Town in St. Paul. She works in a tough correctional setting and leads her nursing team to give the best care to patients who come in with everything from police dog bites to teen pregnancy concerns.

Jennifer Skold Schwegman '91, principal at Schwegman Communications, was featured in the Star Tribune story "Communications Firm Reaches Across Generations" on March 22, 2014.

Minnesota Senator Michelle Collins Benson '91 (R-Ham Lake) is the running mate of GOP gubernatorial candidate Dave Thompson.

Paula Cisewski '98 received a grant from the Minnesota State Arts Board to work on a prose project. She will revise and complete her lyric memoir, making a leap from poetry to creative nonfiction. She will give a reading from the manuscript in Minneapolis.

Sarah Peters '99 was awarded a grant from the Minnesota State Arts Board. She will create The Floating Library as a public art project that will bring the creative genre of artists' books to unconventional places. Displayed onboard a custom-designed raft, the library's collection of artist-made publications will travel to four Twin Cities metro-area lakes in summer 2014.

2000-09

Theresa Haka Comer '02 displayed her work as part of the Start Seeing Crochet exhibit at the Textile Center of Minnesota. The exhibition by Crochet Twin Cities aimed to open the eyes of visitors to crochet beyond the granny square. Techniques such as tapestry, filet, Irish lace and Tunisian crochet were on display from March 6 to May 10.

Annie Paulson Lewandowski '02 had her composition "Do You Burn?" for voice, santur and intonarumori premiered at REDCAT in the Walt Disney Concert Hall Complex in Los Angeles on December 3, 2013. Lewandowski is a lecturer in music at Cornell University.

Desiree Olson '02 received a grant from the Minnesota State Arts Board to pursue a photography project. She will complete a series of portraits of her father, who spent 23 years in prison. The body of work explores the complexities surrounding his recent reintegration into society. Through a program at Volunteers of America, the project will be shared with youth and young adults who have an incarcerated parent.

Susan Botarelli '03 earned a master of science degree as a family nurse practitioner at Regis University in spring 2014.

Jan Kranc Dunlap MAT'03 has written the book Saved by Gracie, a humorous spiritual memoir of how Dunlap's adopted rescue dog helped her recover from anxiety and rediscover her relationship with God. The book, published by national Christian publisher Authentic Publishers, was released on April 15.

Elizabeth McMann '03, MAHS'06 was a speaker at the International Women's Day celebration in March at the Amsterdam Bar and Hall in St. Paul. The celebration highlighted women who are acting locally and helping globally, sending a powerful message about the role of women as a force for change. McMann is the consumer affairs manager at Mississippi Market. (She is featured in the story on page 8.)

Relindis Oyebo M'03 was featured in the St. Paul Pioneer Press on March 7 for her work with Angel of Mercy, a nonprofit she founded in 2005 to run a health clinic in Bamenda, Cameroon. The clinic serves about 300 adults on a regular basis and 500 children, including 20 who have AIDS.

A feature article written by Michael Bemis MLIS'06 was published in the December 2013 issue of Catholic Library World. The article, "A Cathedral of the Book," profiles the O'Shaughnessy-Frey Library at the University of St. Thomas, with an emphasis on the holdings of its archives. Bemis also had his first book, Lori Haidri Saroya '07 has been awarded a 2014 Bush Fellowship. She is one of 24 exceptional leaders in Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and 23 Native American nations to receive the award out of 400 applicants. The fellowship is designed for people who have already demonstrated exceptional leadership abilities, but who feel they could accomplish even more for their community with focused, intensive leadership development.

Library and Information Science: A Guide to Key Literature and Sources, published.

Lisa Lindley '06 was recently awarded a three-year Mentored Research Scientist Development Award from the National Institute of Nursing Research for a study entitled "An Examination of Hospice Use Among Children."

Laura Deshler '07 returned to St. Catherine University to earn an MAOL in 2013.

Erin Andersen Ryan '07 and her husband, Michael, have started a small, sustainable dairy goat operation and apiary called Middle Sattre Farm in the countryside near Decorah, Iowa.

Rebecca McDonald '07 was among the top 20 finalists in the City Pages contest for the Twin Cities' best music photographer.

Sara Udvig '08 will spearhead the West-side Mural Project with the assistance of a grant from the Minnesota State Arts Board. The project will engage the community in creation, connection and conversation in both physical and virtual spaces.

Sarah Wychor Evans MLIS'08 was promoted to library director at the Humboldt Public Library in Iowa. Evans has worked at the library since 2009 as a children's librarian.

Freelance public radio reporter Frankie Barnhill '09 received a grant to highlight the burgeoning art scene in Boise, Idaho. Barnhill's project, entitled "Artist Statement," will be a multimedia exploration of five emerging artists in Idaho's capital city. Barnhill is partnering with the City of Boise and Boise State Public Radio to produce the series.

2010–present

Kathryn Nord M'10, '12 is a co-founder of Sunrise of Life (Sol), an international nonprofit organization to benefit street orphans in Tanzania, Africa. Sol is assisting children in the city of Arusha with the basic needs for survival: food, shelter, healthcare and education. It runs a residential center with dormitories, a nursing center, a kitchen and classrooms for up to 75 children ages 8 to 18. In addition, the nonprofit has a transitional home for students who have finished secondary school and are moving on to vocational or university training.

A former standout player for St. Kate's hockey team, Michaela Michaelson '12 made history in February when she competed at the first female ice cross competition at the 2014 Red Bull Crashed Ice event in St. Paul.

Latifah Kiribedda '12 is working with the nonprofit Mama Hope to build the Suubi Health Center in Bondondo, Uganda. The health center will serve 26,000 people with family care, maternal health and midwifery services.

Gayle Brownlow MAED'13 was the winner of the Sister Ann Harvey Action Research Award. Her winning research paper is entitled "The Effects of Supplementary Reading Activities for Spanish Heritage Learners." Brownlow is a Spanish teacher in the Albert Lea Public School District in southern Minnesota.

Andrew McIlree MAOL'13 was promoted to associate development officer for major gifts at Children's Hospital in Minneapolis. He has worked at the hospital since 2011. 🐾

Good News

Alumna creates "vehicle for sharing goodness" and tales of inspiration.

By Sara Berhow

In a world where mainstream media outlets often focus on the negative or the sensational, Allison Larson Rykken '10 feels that a counterbalance is necessary. She launched the website We Know Good People (weknowgoodpeople.com) last summer to tell positive, heartwarming stories.

"Anyone can write a complaint in five minutes," she says. "That's what we are conditioned to do these days — speak up when we have something to complain about. Writing positive stories takes more of an effort, but the good stories are the ones we should be taking our time to write."

The premise of Larson Rykken's online project is that everyone knows an inspiring person, and those people's stories are worth sharing. Among them are Pastor John Hanson, who sopped up water and moved furniture during a flood; Florence Oyosi, who volunteers her time with orphans in Kenya; and a Harley-riding Willy Stoelzle who returned a lost iPad.

Those stories and more can be found on the We Know Good People website and Facebook page.

Larson Rykken first considered writing a book to share the stories of the people who've inspired her. Later, she decided that her project could have more impact if it allowed others to contribute as well.

"That keeps my vision alive," she says. "I've always said that I know the best people, but I can't be the only one."

Michael Baynes, former associate director of student life on St. Kate's Minneapolis campus, was Larson Rykken's inspiration for starting We Know Good People. Her mentor died in a tragic accident in 2012. "He is the original 'good person,'" she says, "and I will be satisfied if my life leaves half the legacy his did." 🐾

Lives of Worth and Service

Annual Alumnae Award winners demonstrate the values of a St. Catherine education.

By Sara Berhow

EACH YEAR SINCE 1979, ST. CATHERINE UNIVERSITY has recognized outstanding graduates who demonstrate excellence in leadership and service to others; who play an influential role in family, professional, community, church or volunteer activities; and who live the ideals of St. Catherine University.

Gloria DeVore '64

PIONEER AND INNOVATOR

St. Kate's has a 60-year history of educating occupational therapy professionals, thanks in part to Gloria DeVore, OTR, who has given generously to the University while promoting advances in the field.

Early in her career, at the University of North Carolina, she helped develop the first comprehensive hand treatment center in the United States. In 1970, she helped establish the occupational and physical therapy department at the University of Arizona Medical Center. She later became one of the first occupational therapists in the nation to open a private, free-standing clinic when she started Hand Therapy Associates.

An innovator and advocate, DeVore was never afraid to step up when she encountered challenges. When the appropriate equipment for measuring and testing her clients didn't exist, she worked with manufacturers to design and develop devices such as the goniometer. When her patients needed additional treatment sessions, she advocated with insurance providers for patient care.

"I had an outstanding career, thanks in large part to the superior teachers and top-notch education I received at St. Catherine," says DeVore, who retired in 1995.

DeVore has left a lasting legacy on St. Kate's campuses. She was instrumental in raising funds for the human anatomy lab in Mendel Hall and generously supported renovations to the occupational therapy space in Fontbonne Hall. During her career, she offered internships to St. Kate's students, mentoring the next generation of occupational therapists.

"While the mission statement 'to lead and influence' did not exist while Ms. DeVore was a student at St. Kate's, she is the personification of that mission," says Sharon Stoffel M'67, a retired occupational therapy professor at St. Kate's who nominated DeVore for the Alumnae Award. "Her ability to effectively lead others and influence the development of a new and highly respected area of healthcare is amazing."

Nancy Jamieson '80

COMMUNITY LEADER

The story of Nancy Jamieson's life is one of adventure and worldly experience. Between her graduation from St. Kate's in 1980 and her return to Minnesota in 2006, Jamieson lived in three states and three foreign countries.

"It has been an exciting life," she says. "Everything is a learning experience."

But community — and family — are most important. Whether relocating to Hong Kong, Paris or Milan, Jamieson found herself craving connections in her new location. She learned it was important to get involved in her community to make friends, support others and continue to learn.

"My greatest accomplishment is my two children," says Jamieson, referring to son Jamieson Cash, 29, and daughter Elizabeth Cash, 26. "They are self-sustaining adults who are living their passions and dreams. They grew up living in the world, and learned to take risks, make mistakes and always keep learning."

A music and education major at St. Kate's, she found that music is a common language around the globe. "Music has been my foundation," she explains. "It has made me feel solid when my world would change."

Jamieson has been involved in community theater and participated in groups that bring music to the elderly. In 1995 she co-founded Friends of the Arts, an organization that still supports the arts in St. Louis Park, Minnesota.

Most recently, Jamieson served as president of Friends of the Minnesota Orchestra. Although the orchestra experienced labor and management challenges, Jamieson helped position both the orchestra and its volunteer and fundraising arm for success.

Jamieson is a certified co-active coach, a profession that allows her to spend time caring for her parents and continue her volunteer commitments. “Coaching combines everything I’ve done. I help others through challenges, when they need someone in their corner.”

Paula Bendry Larsen '64

VOLUNTEER AND BUSINESS OWNER

Paula Bendry Larsen has remained closely tied to the University since graduating with a degree in English and a minor in economics 50 years ago. She treasures the experiences, friendships and education she received as a Katie.

“Not everybody gets that opportunity,” she says.

Larsen has been a member of her class leadership team for 50 years, helping to plan reunion events and assisting with fundraising efforts. She’s also a member of the Alumnae Council, serving on the Student-Alumnae Connections Committee.

Her parents taught Larsen the importance of giving to those in need — a value underscored by her professors and the Sisters of St. Joseph. Among the nonprofit organizations she has served are Hospitality House, the St. Joan of Arc Care Committee and Christmas with Dignity. She has even traveled to Capetown, South Africa, on mission trips with Arm in Arm.

“You always get more than you give,” Larsen says.

From 1985 to 2011, she ran the Earnie Larsen Life Management Center with her late husband. Earnie Larsen was a well-known pioneer in the field of recovery from alcoholism and other addictions. He crafted books, presentations and videos while Paula ran the business that helped many addicts recover.

Earnie was diagnosed with pancreatic cancer in 2010, and he began writing a series of letters to friends and colleagues. After he died, Paula compiled the letters, wrote additional content and published the book Earnie Larsen: His Last Steps.

Among her many contributions, Larsen is most proud of feeding the homeless through the Mobile Loaves and Fishes program. “I feel so blessed to be able to help in whatever way I can,” she says.

“Paula’s greatest gift is her humility and extreme generosity,” says Kathleen Hayes Coppo '64, the classmate who nominated Larsen for the award. “Leading by example, she makes us feel like nothing is impossible.” 🐾
